CHAOS

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1998 (Department of Health 1999).

There is a growing emphasis on the need to improve the efficiency of the public sector, and to ensure that the public sector is able to deliver the services that are required by the public. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the introduction of competition, the restructuring of public services, and the introduction of new management practices.

One of the key challenges facing the public sector is the need to improve the quality of services. This is a challenge that is being met by a number of initiatives, including the introduction of new standards, the implementation of quality management systems, and the introduction of new management practices.

Another key challenge facing the public sector is the need to improve the efficiency of services. This is a challenge that is being met by a number of initiatives, including the introduction of new management practices, the implementation of cost reduction programmes, and the introduction of new technologies.

Finally, a key challenge facing the public sector is the need to improve the accessibility of services. This is a challenge that is being met by a number of initiatives, including the introduction of new management practices, the implementation of accessibility programmes, and the introduction of new technologies.

In conclusion, the public sector is facing a number of challenges, but it is also facing a number of opportunities. By implementing the initiatives that are being introduced, the public sector will be able to improve the quality of services, improve the efficiency of services, and improve the accessibility of services.

The public sector is a vital part of the UK economy, and it is essential that it is able to deliver the services that are required by the public. By implementing the initiatives that are being introduced, the public sector will be able to meet this challenge.

The public sector is a complex organisation, and it is essential that it is able to deliver the services that are required by the public. By implementing the initiatives that are being introduced, the public sector will be able to meet this challenge.

The year 1970 opened up a decade of new thoughts and ideas for improvement and progress. To keep in step, the 1970 CHAOS staff has put extra time and planning into putting out a more creative yearbook. Colored pictures, a new layout form, and a patron page are just a few of the many improvements put into the yearbook.

This is just the first step in building a better publication. To keep up with modern times, I hope that the future CHAOS staffs will continue to keep pace with changing times.

HOMECOMING 1969

Homecoming festivities began with a pep rally and bonfire sponsored by the Senior Class. Our Bombers rose victorious, beating South Newton's Rebels 18-6. Senior fullback Dave Yeoman captured all 18 points for Rensselaer.

Dave Yeoman watches the action.

This year's "Sunshine Daddy Date Night" proved to be its usual success. The girls were on hand to provide plenty of fun, entertainment, and refreshments for their fathers. Unusual features of the evening included a clever skit by some of our band members and Sunshine Society's version of "The Dating Game."

The 1969-70 convocation schedule included a variety of presentations: Don Lonie lectured to the student body on the hazards of the teen years; an hour of trampoline tricks and graceful floor routines were presented by a husband and wife acrobatic team, thus rounding out the schedule of company convos. An unusual and scientifically oriented demonstration was a service rendered by the Atomic Energy Commission. And, towards the latter part of the school year, Rensselaer Central students were audience to a number of bands, ranging from Crown Point's fine high school band to the excellent concert band from Indiana State University.

Within the covers of this year's CHAOS, we have attempted to present a yearbook which better represents our high school and its students. The format is that of a magazine divided according to seasons. For example, the first section is September through November, and activities and sports which took place during those months are presented.

We also switched to individual pictures for all the classes. Organizations and sports are spaced so that they won't monotonize the reader. We hope the future will bring even more exciting innovations for an ever improving yearbook.

Seniors at Rensselaer Central have been given the opportunity to be cadet teachers. Seniors may sign up for any grade level or subject in the system and teach one semester. The cadet teachers have various responsibilities: taking roll, correcting tests and papers, assisting students individually, supervising study time, making teaching aids, etc.

The primary purpose of this program is to provide experiences by which the students may be better informed as to the teaching profession.

MONOGRAM CLUB

Greg Lintner, Dave Yeoman, Rick Linback

The Class of 1970 boasts three outstanding athletes. Greg Lintner and Dave Yeoman were instrumental in Rensselaer's football conference championship. Rick Linback performed sensationally as the Bombers' basketball sharpshooter; by the same token, Dave and Greg proved to be extremely well qualified basketball players. Much of Rensselaer's success in athletics is a direct result of these boys' efforts.

Thanks to a small but dedicated staff, CHAOS has mastered its challenges and achieved its goals with a high degree of success. In order to achieve this challenge, the staff has worked many long, tiring hours on layout and copy assignments. Because of the new changes and ideas, this year's staff was confronted with a never-ending financial problem. This problem was partially solved by many generous patrons who unselfishly contributed to the 1970 CHAOS.

At this time, we would like to thank everyone who made this year's book possible.

SUNSHINE'S SPRING ACTIVITIES

Rensselaer's Sunshine Society began its spring activities on a pleasant note in Blue Hawaii, this year's theme for the annual sunshine dance. Miss Teresa Gates was crowned Queen of the Islands and Dave Dawson reigned as her king.

Sunshine also left the continent for the Mother's Tea which was held in Paris, France. The entertainment consisted of a fashion show and singing by a trio of sunshiners. The new officers were installed and refreshments were served to complete a very enjoyable evening.

REIGNING OVER THE LAND OF OZ

Following the yellow brick road, this year's prom goers were led into the fanciful world of Oz. Midway through the evening, the Emerald City adopted its queen and king, seniors Deana Patt and Dave Westfall.

Sophomore boys donned costumes and posed in scenes set up for the scarecrow, tin man, and cowardly lion representing the unforgettable characters of Oz.

We would like to extend a special note of thanks to our photographer, Mr. Wayne Erickson, who spent many hours taking pictures for this year's book.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million (1990–1999) and is projected to increase by a further 1.5 million by 2010 (Office of National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to develop strategies to meet the needs of the ageing population. The Department of Health (2000) has identified the need to develop a new approach to the care of the elderly, one that is based on the concept of 'active ageing'. This approach is based on the idea that older people should be able to live independently, to be active and to participate in society.
